1. Where an alleged breach of the rules constitutes, in the opinion of the Dean, a violation of the law, the Dean shall immediately refer the matter to the Police.
Where a Student Member is subject to criminal proceedings arising out of the alleged breach of the rules, the Dean shall not normally proceed with the case other than, if appropriate, temporarily to suspend him from residence or from use of College facilities.

2. If the alleged breach of the rules is not proceeded with as a criminal matter by the prosecuting authorities, the Dean shall then deal with the matter as though it had not been referred to the Police.

3. If a Student Member is convicted of a criminal offence of such seriousness that an immediate term of imprisonment might have been imposed (whether or not such a sentence was in fact imposed) the Governing Body shall have power, after hearing any representation that the Student Member may wish to make, to expel the Student Member or impose such lesser penalty as it shall see fit.

4. Where an alleged breach of the University Statutes or regulations has not in the opinion of the Dean, occurred within a College context, the Dean shall immediately refer the matter to the Proctors. Where a Student Member is subject to an investigation by the Proctors arising out of the alleged breach of the rules, the Dean shall not normally proceed with the case other than, if appropriate, temporarily to suspend him from residence, or from use of College facilities.

5. If the complaint relates to activity which falls within the College’s Code of Practice on Harassment [http://www.linacre.ox.ac.uk/uploads/image/docs/Harassment (member version).doc](http://www.linacre.ox.ac.uk/uploads/image/docs/Harassment (member version).doc), whether or not it constitutes ‘harassment’ for the purpose of this by-law, the Dean shall consider whether the complaint should more appropriately be dealt with under the informal procedures set out in the Code. If she takes the view that the complaint should not be so dealt with she shall deal with the matter under the Disciplinary Procedure.

6. In the event that a Student Member is expelled by the University, such expulsion shall apply to the College also, subject to a right of appeal to the Governing Body.
7. In the event that a Student Member is disciplined by the University for conduct in breach of College and/or University statutes or regulations, a penalty of suspension or rustication imposed by the University shall apply also to College premises and facilities, subject to a right of appeal to the Governing Body.

IV. Disciplinary Procedure

1. When an alleged breach of the College rules involves a Student Member resident in College or in College premises, the Dean shall have the authority, where the seriousness of the alleged breach justifies it, to suspend the Student Member from residence or from use of College facilities, with immediate effect, for as long as the Disciplinary Procedure is in operation.

2. Provided that, in the opinion of the Dean, the complaint is not frivolous or vexatious, she shall, if possible within 24 hours of receiving the report of the alleged breach, require in writing the Student Member concerned to come for an interview with her. She will stipulate the time and place for the interview and shall normally provide the Student Member with 24 hours’ notice of the interview. The notification of the interview shall give particulars of the alleged breach of the College rules and information on the support that is available to the Student Member. The Student Member shall be told that they may bring a member of the College or an Oxford University Student Union adviser to the interview to assist him.

3. At the interview, the Dean shall explain to the Student Member that they can:
   i. admit the alleged breach and continue with the interview so that the Dean may gather information relevant to the penalty;
   ii. deny the alleged breach and continue with the interview as an investigative process, which may be adjourned if either the Dean or the Student Member reasonably require evidence in relation to the alleged breach to be provided by other persons.

4. At the close of the interview the Dean may, dependent on its nature and outcome, either:
   i. take no further action;
ii. accept an admission that a breach has been committed. After hearing any mitigation she may:

1. EITHER impose an admonition or one or more of the penalties (a) to (c) listed in Paragraph 5 below.

2. OR refer the case to the Disciplinary Committee if the breach is of such seriousness that it warrants a penalty outside the Dean’s own powers.

iii. if the breach is not admitted, refer and present the case to the Disciplinary Committee;

iv. or, if in the Dean’s opinion the nature and seriousness of the alleged offence would not warrant a penalty outside the Dean’s own powers she may offer the Student Member the choice of accepting the Dean’s jurisdiction or having the matter referred to the Disciplinary Committee. The Student Member must be reminded that the scope of the penalties available to the Disciplinary Committee is wider than those available to the Dean.

5. The Dean may impose one or more of the following penalties:

   a) a fine up to a maximum value of £200;

6. The details of any breach established and any admonition and/or penalty imposed shall be entered on an appropriate record and signed by the Dean and the Student Member. One copy of the record shall be given to the Student Member and one retained by the Dean. The Dean will file her record in a sealed envelope that may only be opened by him or the Principal. This will be held in the student’s file for one year or as long as the student is enrolled on a University course, whichever is the longer. It will then be destroyed.

20. If the Disciplinary Committee is of the opinion that none of the penalties specified in Paragraph 17 would be adequate, having regard to the circumstances of the offence and of the offender, it may make a recommendation for a different penalty in writing to the Governing Body, giving its reasons. A written copy of the recommendations shall be given to the Student Member charged.

21. The details of any breach established and any admonition and/or penalty imposed shall be entered on an appropriate record and signed by the Chairman of the Disciplinary Committee and the Student Member.    b) The Student’s College Adviser;
